

Find the perfect surface-mounted light fixtures for your next project through Architizer's new community marketplace for building-products. Click here for more information. It's free for architects. Are you a lighting manufacturer looking to connect with architects? Click here.

When the sun goes down and spaces calls for artificial light, the single most important element to think about is the light fixture and whether it will sit proud of a surface or be hidden away within the wall or ceiling plane. By having a physical object in mind, the idea of the level of illumination and the way light and shadow interact within space go hand in hand.

Bonus: LEAF semi-recessed light by Buzzi Buzzi

LEAF is a light fixture that brings to light the idea of surface. This minimal lamp is technically semi-recessed into the wall, but its subtly protruding form aligns it with surface-mounted designs. The light fixture can be positioned horizontally on ceiling planes and vertically on walls. The bright white light it casts from under its curved edge is delivered via LED which in the long run helps keep energy costs down while at the same time adding definitions within a space.

Search for the best surface-mounted light fixtures through Architizer's new community marketplace for building-products. Click here to sign up now. Are you a lighting manufacturer looking to connect with architects? Click here.

---

Related Content

BRANDS & FIRMS

Buzzi & BuzziPSLabSauerbruch Hutton Architektensauerbruch hutton architectsVibiaVIBIA LIGHTING

BRANDS & FIRMS